

The Rimlar Timber Contemporary staircase has been created to satisfy the needs of those looking for clean lines and simplicity in design. When complemented by the warmth of a timber handrail, it delivers a modern and satisfying interpretation of contemporary style.

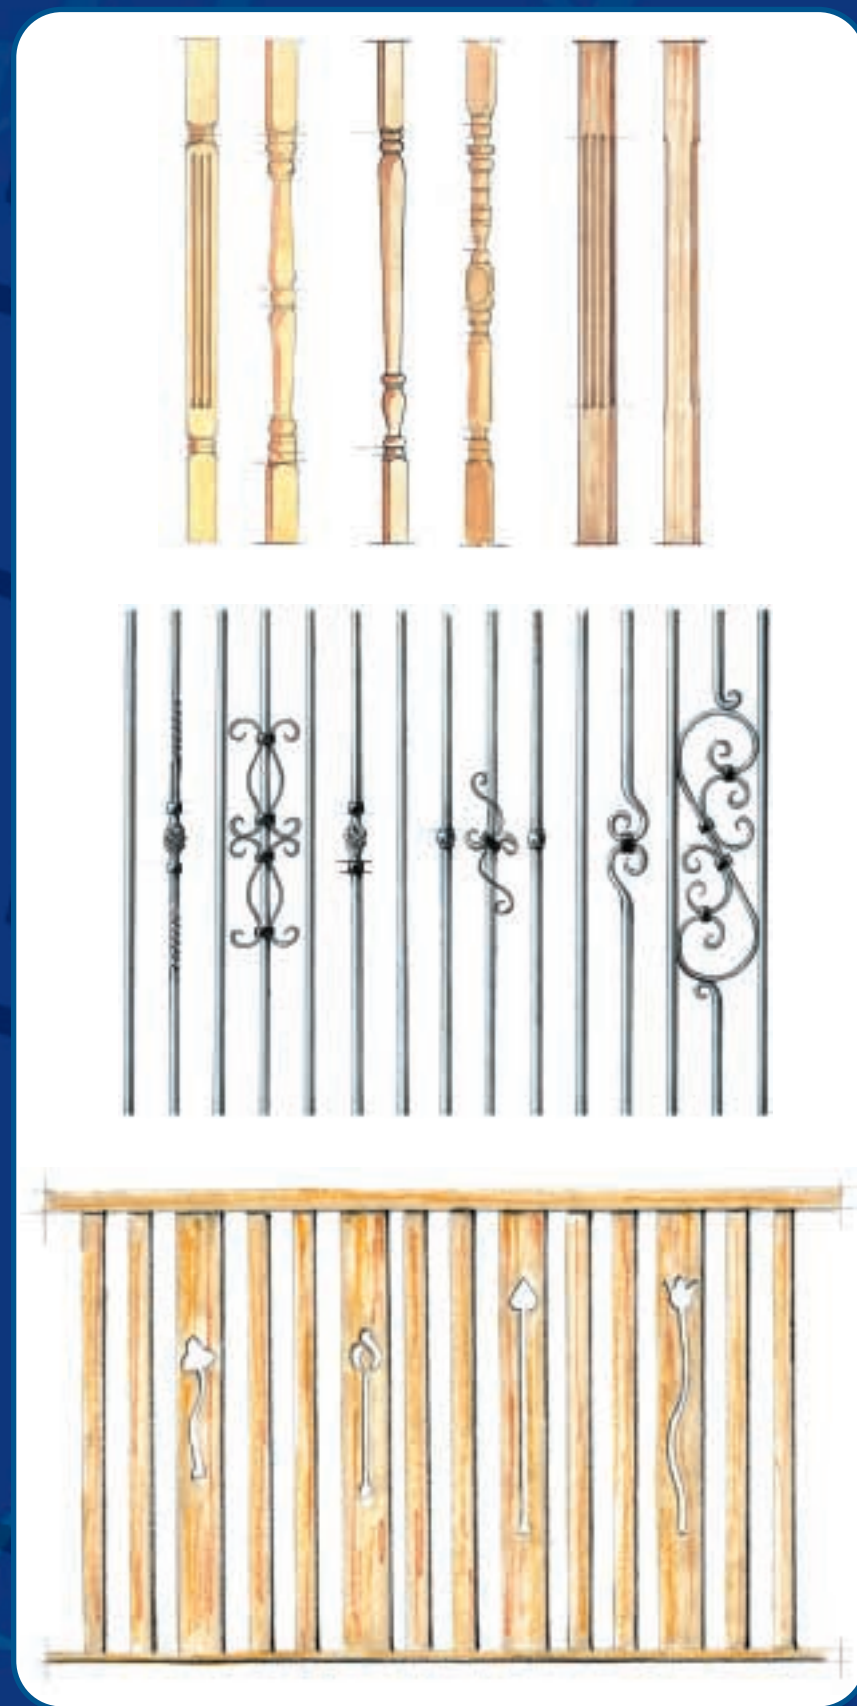

Timber Contemporary

Architectural influence is a key design parameter of the Rimlar Timber Contemporary staircase. Smooth and flowing, and as modern as the new millennium, careful attention to detail and quality craftsmanship is lavished on each project to ensure an optimum product.

When you choose a staircase from Rimlar, you can be assured that you've chosen a quality hand crafted product made to the highest standards using timber personally selected by us. To ensure absolute consistency of colour, size and texture, all timber balusters are manufactured to our specifications, as are any wrought iron components. Our wide variety of styles and treatments also ensures each staircase manufactured by Rimlar is unique. It means there is no limits as to what you can conceive and we can create

Timber Turned

Revive the look and feel of a bygone era with a Rimlar Timber Turned staircase. This example shows how the combination of paint and stain work together in a warm and inviting harmony to perfectly complement the unmistakable heritage lines.

Two very speedy lamp-stands perused the obese fountain. Two angst-ridden dwarves sacrificed Quark. One pawnbroker telephoned umpteen cats, because the ticket cleverly marries umpteen dogs, even though two cats comfortably sacrificed Afghanistan, although Tokyo ran

The combination of wrought iron and timber gives the best of both worlds - the solid strength of iron and the warm appeal of timber. This staircase utilises cut stringers with a turned post for a classic, appealing look.

Wrought Iron

This classic sweeping staircase combines an iron twist bar with birdcage as well as a hand-crafted scroll at the base of the stair that results in a stunning first impression. Rimlar can custom manufacture a virtually endless combination of wrought iron and timber staircases to suit your specific requirements

Timber Federation

The elegance of solid timber provides the highlight to this large stairwell that integrates landings as a component of a direction change. Purpose designed and custom manufactured, this project typifies the care and craftsmanship that goes into every Rimlar staircase

Rimlar can reproduce a Timber Federation staircase authentically down to the finest detail. Using photographs and books from the bygone era, this example utilising cut stringers was modelled on a 1920's staircase and is a faithful reproduction.
